

63rd ANNUAL DIAGNOSTIC SLIDE SESSION 2022

CASE 2022-1

Submitted by: William Humphrey, M.D. and John C DeWitt, M.D., Ph.D.
Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine
University of Vermont Medical Center
111 Colchester Ave,
Burlington, VT 05401

Clinical History:

Thirteen-day-old female who presented from with respiratory distress and apnea found to have an AV fistula and ventriculomegaly due to an intracranial mass shown in image below.

Material submitted:

1. MRI w/ contrast (T1W) images
2. H&E
3. One H&E slide

Objectives

1. Discuss the differential diagnosis and evaluation of brain tumors presenting in infants.
2. Describe prognostic and treatment factors in infantile brain tumors.